

SCOPE OF THE M.A./M.SC. IN CRIMINOLOGY AND POLICE STUDIES COURSE

M.A./M.Sc. in Criminology and Police Studies (2 Year Degree Programme) is an excellent blend of theoretical and applied criminology. Theoretical subjects like Theories of crime and Criminal Law help to build the foundations on which practical subjects like crime analysis, criminal investigation, security management, etc. can be taught to students who can apply these skills and knowledge in various domains like private security management, human rights organizations and social work organizations. This course comprises of four semesters comprising of various papers like Theories of Crime, criminal law, criminal and forensic psychology, criminal justice system, penology and correctional administration, victimology, forensic science, crime analysis, research methodology, police administration, organizational behavior in policing and human rights. Apart from class room teaching this course also includes practical exposure through field work, internships, visits to police stations, courts, prisons and NGOs and interaction with practitioners including police officers, prison officers, judges and lawyers. Former students of this course are working in various sectors like brand protection, NGOs and hotels like Taj,Marriott and Radisson.